

Learning Disability Week 2008

16th – 22nd June

Forgotten Citizens

LDW
2008

Learning Disability Week is all about telling people in your community about learning disability and the issues that affect people with learning disabilities and their families.

In 2008 we want to find out about the histories of people with learning disabilities and their families in Scotland.

Lots of people with learning disabilities haven't had the chance to find out about the past or tell others about it.

Club

Make sure people with learning disabilities aren't 'Forgotten Citizens' and that you tell your stories – this could be of your social group, advocacy group, what it was like in your day centre, anything like this.

Day Centre

During Learning Disability Week we'll tell these stories and let Scotland know about the important part people with learning disabilities have played in its history.
